MEMORIES

Submitted by Village of Richfield Springs
Historian Harriett Geywitz

Mrs. Alice Griffin Hatch (1847-1937) was one of the most prolific genealogists and historians of her time. She married Marshall Monroe Hatch (1844-1928) and for years they carried on a business of collecting and selling antiques. Alice also became noted for her work as a writer of poems as well as articles which gave news and those which recorded the past. She was correspondent for the Richfield/ South Columbia area for several newspapers. Also, to her credit, was her dedication in completing cemetery listings and making sure that DAR markers were properly placed in the area. This work led to Mrs. Hatch being acknowledged as the ‘Mother’ of the local Legion post.

The following is one of Mrs. Hatch’s articles, published in The Mercury in 1931, entitled “Lest We Forget”. It gives us a look into the past with descriptions of homes and their occupants that have not existed for many, many years and the knowledge of which would have been lost except for her writings.

“In the early half of the last century, John W. Tunnicliff had a commodious home on the east side of Church Street in Richfield Springs. A monument in the village burying ground close to the church window where on Sabbath, the anthems of the choir float over the stone, furnished the information that he died almost three-quarters of a century ago. Chamberlin, the next owner of the home, added a third story and kept boarders and was succeeded by H. M. DeLong and son, Everett and lastly the Ibbotsons became the owners of the property which adjoined their beautiful home. All traces of this early habitation are removed. The site has been converted into a beautiful floral park in which the water well alone and memories are all that remain of its former usefulness and activities.

There are those, perhaps many, who never heard of the first Presbyterian Church built over a hundred years ago and torn down in 1876 after fifty years of usefulness but the present beautiful structure is a ornament to the site and to the village. Its chapel, given by Amass Abbott, stood at the south side of the church.

The Spring House and its irreparable loss by fire July 25, 1897, may reasonably be described as a great public calamity. The original house, only two stories high, was built 108 years ago by Theodore Page and Samuel Chase and was known as Page’s Tavern. It stood on the corner of Main Street, Dutch gabled and flush with the street which had been laid out in 1821, two years earlier, and named Warren Road. Joshua Whitney became its proprietor in 1840 and changed its name to the more appropriate one of The Spring House which had many additions thereto in length, height, breath and ownership. In the following years it was in the front rank of American watering-place hotels. The site is now a beautiful park and tennis court.

Even the original pavilion covering the spring is gone and the spring covered over and would be soon forgotten save that its picture adorns several decorative items. However, Ganowauges Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, intends having the spring reopened and the structure restored to its former beauty and usefulness in the near future. (DAR Fountain 1932)

The house on the northwest corner, opposite the Spring House was, in the early days, a diminutive structure occupied by one Benjamin Allen, the first merchant at Freeman’s Mills, later known as Weatherbee’s. The building was moved in this corner and our only additional knowledge of this perhaps, first merchant, is learned from a headstone in the village cemetery which states Benjamin Allen - died July 7, 1837. He was succeeded by Joel Pettis. The building burned about 1830 but was soon rebuilt. Seventy-five year ago, Charley Tyso was its proprietor. It was next a home built by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ireland in 1860 who spent many summers here and finally sold the home to James Mason. After his death it became the home of Wm. McCredy and later Richard Owen but no trace of it remains and its site is occupied by a modern filling station.

There is little to show where the first St. John’s Church stood on the west side of Lake Street of land given by Augustus H. Ward in 1849. The site is now occupied, in part or wholly, by the Bronner Block, so called. The rectory was built directly across the street and is a grocery store and bakery in the present phase of its existence. The present St. John’s Church, built in 1879, is located on the corner of Main and Elm Streets. It is a fine structure and has a commodious parish house. It is strictly up-to-date and well supported and cared for.

There is nothing in the appearance of the Southern N. Y. trolley station on the north side of Main Street to remind one of bygone days. Away back, seventy-five or more years ago on these premises, John Bailey was monarch of all he surveyed. He was the motive power, or rather his fine horses were, of the three, four-horse stages, all vermilion and gilt with brown leather springs, that brought all the summer guests from Herkimer. His son, Hamilton, familiarly known as ‘Ham’ Bailey, went to the Civil War and Messrs. Louis and John McCredy next owned the place and had a famous livery and day boarding stable while the home was converted into a boarding house. Then all those buildings were removed and replaced by a beautiful, up-to-date trolley station which is now outdistanced by the automobile.

We cannot close this brief summary without a mention and a tribute to Tunnicliff Cottage. In the early days, the Tunnicliff ancestor bought six hundred acres which included the western half of the Village of Richfield Springs and later, about 1880, Tunnicliff Cottage became deservedly popular as a select boarding house and there was a feeling of sadness and general loss when it accidentally burned on Dec. 25, 1913. Proprietors John Frank Getman, his wife, nee Mary Tunnicliff and her sister Cornelia are all gone and doubtless forgotten by many. The site of that home so well known for years and so prominent and useful, is occupied by the trolley road and its lawn by a well-equipped filling station.”

Mrs. Hatch’s many contributions to recording the history of our area seemed to be appropriately remarked on in the hymn that was sung at her funeral service, “Only Remembered by What We Have Done” (Horatius Bonar), which includes the verses: Only the truth that in life we have spoken; Only the seed that on earth we have sown; These shall pass onward when we are forgotten; Fruits of the harvest and what we have done. Only remembered; Only remembered by what we have done. Thus would we pass from the earth and its toiling; Only remembered by what we have done.

TAX GUIDE

CONSIDERING AN APPEAL

Appeals may be the place for you if all the following apply:

- You received a letter from the IRS explaining your right to appeal the IRS's decision
- You do not agree with the IRS's decision
- You are not signing an agreement form sent to you

If all of the above are true, then you may be ready to request an Appeals conference or hearing.

To decide if you should appeal your tax dispute, consider the following. If you believe the:

- IRS made an incorrect decision based on a misinterpretation of the law, check the publications discussing your issue(s)
- IRS didn't properly apply the law due to a misunderstanding of the facts, be prepared to clarify and support your position
- IRS is taking inappropriate collection action against you or your offer in compromise was denied and you disagree with that decision, be prepared to clarify and support your position

Facts used by the IRS are incorrect, then you should have organized records or other evidence to support your position

In addition to the ordinary appeal process, we offer mediation programs that can more quickly resolve disputed issues.

Appeals isn't for you if any of the following apply:

- The correspondence you received from the IRS was a bill and there was no mention of an appeal
- You didn't provide all information to support your position to the examiner during the audit
- Your only concern is that you can't afford to pay the amount you owe

If you don't meet the conditions above for having your case enter the Appeals process, contact the IRS employee you have been working with or call for assistance in identifying the correct IRS employee to contact.
