TUNNICLIFF COTTAGE REVISITED

Submitted by Village of Richfield Springs
Historian Harriett Geywitz

It was June 20th, 1912 and time for a celebration - the Tunnickliff(e) Semi-Centennial. A frequent visitor, Frank S. Williams, from New York City, felt it was appropriate to honor this now famous resort home with the following poem:

*Here's a toast to old Tunnickliff Cottage;
May its shadow never grow less!
Life's worth more than a dish of pottage, when your home is at this address!
The genius of hospitality ever more at its threshold glows,
And greets you with cordiality like the breath of a new-blown rose.
And this is the Semi-Centennial that its friends celebrate today,
But their happiness seems millennial, they are all so lighthearted and gay!
And the Spirit of dear Miss Cornelia, the Queen of its olden days,
Is so near the mists almost reveal her in these Golden Jubilee rays!
Though she has passed from our mortal vision, and her good sister, Mary, too,
They look from the Fields Elysian,
and smile when our hearts are true.
To the standard of worth and honor that floats from the Tunnickliff mast,
As free from stain or dishonor as it was in the beautiful past!
And the Tunnickliff blood still courses though the heart of the hostess now,
And a son of the old-time forces, is her partner, by Love's great vow;
And Getman, the kindly and genial, still cheers up the men, when they smoke,
With humor that's always congenial and stories and many a joke.
And there's one of the Tunnickliff name whose smile often brightens the room;
Cousin Eliza is always the same, like sunshine, dispelling all gloom.
May the old Cottage still be a haven for many a year to come,
With the Townsends a welcome waving, to the ideal summer home!
And when they depart from this sphere, as the witty old Irishman said,
'May their souls be in heaven a year, ere the Devil finds out they are dead.'*

The sisters, Cornelia Elizabeth and Mary Mecklin Tunnickliff(e) (later married to John Francis Getman) began in business when they ran a millinery and ladies' shop from 1860-1861. By 1862, they had started receiving guests at their home on Main Street, who were visiting the summer resort. Mary continued to run their ladies' shop as part of their home and Cornelia managed the Cottage.

Each year brought something new to Tunnickliff(e) Cottage. As their popularity increased, so did the size of their "cottage" until it became large enough to accommodate over one hundred people. Along with this growth came the updates necessary to keep a most respectable select boarding house up to date. Fresh painting, a new walk and electric lights along with other comforts were always provided for their guests. In 1887, the eastern section of the house was raised with another story added to make more rooms available for their growing number of summer visitors. It was in a desirable location (now the area of NY Pizzeria), only a few steps from the springs and its bath houses where people could get the benefit of the sulphur water as well as seek a place of quiet.

A Mercury article in 1892 described Tunnickliff(e) Cottage as follows: "The pleasant homelike appearance of the cottage has often brought forth favorable comment. The guests there are a class of people who live in the harmony of a family circle, their tastes and desires are so synonymous that no sets or cliques ever form there. The Cottage is managed admirable and every detail is looked after in a manner which does credit to the owners. The impression gained by a stranger passing would be that of a family reunion." Open for guests all year, it was a place where all were made to feel welcome to enjoy the quiet surroundings but also to join in the variety of entertainments that were provided for their amusement if they so desired. It might be nights of charades, card parties, speakers, recitals, club meetings, teas, games, tableaux, croquet, rides on the tally-ho or dances such as held in 1903 when a festivity was put on by the young people of the house. The dining room was cleared and decorated with vines and the spirit of gayety was said to possess the occasion with the Richfield orchestra providing the music late into the night.

Cornelia (1802-1899 and Mary (1822-1903) were daughters of Aurelius and Nancy Ann Tunnickliff(e). Eliza Jane Lansing (1835-1922) married William T. Getman in 1851 and became a widow in 1863. For about forty years, she acted as parlor maid at the Cottage, owned by her sister-in-law. John F. Getman managed the home from 1903-1907 with the help of niece, Mrs. Fannie Townsend, and after Getman's declining health, Mrs. Townsend managed the Cottage until 1913.

The property remained in the Tunnickliff/Getman family until the disastrous fire on December 28, 1913 at 4 AM. The temperature was four below zero - so cold that the air blown fire whistle was frozen and the only way to give the alarm was by going house to house. The year-round guests escaped into the cold, many scantily clad. The fire was blamed on a faulty kitchen flue. It wasn't until 1915 that the remains of the Cottage were demolished as salvage by William Martin.

The history of the once noted place of hospitality of the summer resort world with its beautiful lawn, spacious dining room, comfortable piazzas, and unlimited hospitality had come to an end.

LAWN & GARDEN

Did you know?

If you think that the only way to exercise and burn calories involves gym equipment, think again. Yard work can be just as challenging as a thorough aerobics workout at a nearby fitness club. To reap the greatest benefits, gardeners should use as little motorized machinery as possible. Manual tools will get you moving and can burn a substantial amount of calories. Try to vary positions and alternate which hands you use to reduce strain and get an even workout. Fitness experts say that gardening can improve strength, increase endurance and assist with flexibility. According to a report in the UK publication The Telegraph, clearing a pond or weeding can burn some 300 calories in an hour. Forty-five minutes worth of gardening can burn as many calories as 30 minutes of aerobics. GT174890

How to plant a tree for successful growth

More sunlight and warm temperatures frequently inspire homeowners to spend more time in the great outdoors during spring and summer. Outdoor projects often top homeowners' to-do lists in spring and summer, with gardens and landscapes taking center stage. Planting more trees around the yard is one popular project that can improve property value and benefit the environment.

Why plant trees?

There are plenty of reasons to plant trees. Trees provide a natural form of shade, reducing air temperature by blocking the sun's rays. This can reduce reliance on air conditioning systems and make it more comfortable to spend time outdoors during the summer.

North Carolina State University College of Agriculture & Life Sciences says trees absorb and block noise and reduce glare. They also can trap dust, pollen and smoke. Trees also absorb carbon dioxide and potentially harmful gasses from the air. One large tree can supply a day's worth of oxygen for as many as four people, while also storing 13 pounds of carbon per year.

Getting started

Visit a garden center or nursery and select a tree that will be hardy in your planting zone. Choosing native trees can increase the likelihood that the new tree will adapt to its surroundings. Also, inspect trees to determine if they're healthy before taking them home. Look for evidence of root girdling, which occurs when the roots circle around the perimeter of the container and surround the trunk. Trees should not have any dead or dormant branches. The DIY Network suggests locating the tree where it can thrive. This means selecting a spot that can make it easier for the tree to grow tall and wide. Avoid planting near the house, where roots can crack concrete or asphalt, and always plant away from underground pipes.

Planting the tree

Now it is time to amend the soil. It's not enough to enrich only the soil in the hole where the tree will be placed. Move out into a circular area beyond where the roots will start so that roots can expand and properly anchor the tree. The next method of success is to ensure that the tree has a large enough hole to contain the existing root ball and allow for roots to grow and expand. Better Homes and Gardens experts say to prepare a hole that is two to three times as wide as the root ball of the tree. Treat the root ball gently. If the roots are wrapped in burlap, remove the burlap or push it to the bottom of the hole.

Backfill the hole with soil and check that the tree is straight. Stake the tree to help it stay upright and straight until the roots anchor it more effectively. A layer of mulch around the base of the tree can prevent weeds and reduce water loss. Water daily for several weeks until the roots have fanned out. It's best to leave trees be for the first growing season, only removing broken or diseased limbs. Resist pruning and shaping until the tree has survived its first growing season. TF175017
